Introduction to Advocacy for the Cedar Rapids Public Library

Thank you for your interest in advocating on behalf of the Cedar Rapids Public Library. The purpose of this toolkit is to outline resources to promote the importance and value of the Cedar Rapids Public Library. These tools have been compiled to make it as easy as possible to share your support for the library with your friends, family, and community.

What is advocacy?

Advocacy helps to:

- Inform public library users and the community about library services and their value
- Demonstrate how public library services improve the lives of people in the community
- Ensure libraries have resources to continue offering these important services
- Secure a place at the table for library leaders where important funding and policy decisions are made

Why is advocacy important?

Library advocacy is important because it ensures we continue to have the means necessary to serve as a vital community resource supporting all community members. Regular and consistent advocacy with stakeholders means there is a greater chance of being top of mind when important decisions are being made.

We hope this toolkit will offer you the resources needed to advocate for the Cedar Rapids Public Library. Some examples of the messages we hope you will share:

- “The Cedar Rapids Public Library is a vital community hub that fosters lifelong learning, promotes literacy, and provides equal access to information for all residents.”
- “The library offers free resources, programs, and services that support education, professional development, and personal growth, contributing to a thriving community.”
- “Investing in the Cedar Rapids Public Library is an investment in our community’s future, as it enhances the quality of life, promotes economic development, and strengthens social cohesion.”

Content in this toolkit has been adapted from a number of resources, including the American Library Association Frontline Advocacy Toolkit, the American Library Association Advocacy Action Plan Workbooks, Committee on Library Advocacy, American Library Association and United for Libraries (2021), Center for Media Engagement - How to Talk to People Who Disagree With You Politically (2020), the Iowa Library Association, and the Ontario Library Association’s Advocacy Toolkit (2019).

It was prepared by members of the Advocacy Committee and CRPL staff, with support of the Board of Trustees and Library Director Dara Schmidt.

How to Talk to People Who Disagree with You

It can be challenging to talk to people who disagree with you. In this study, the Center for Media Engagement interviewed people who live in communities with a mix of political beliefs to glean their best strategies for talking to those with whom they disagree. The results offer five main approaches to talking across political differences.

1. Focus on the people, not the politics

- Build a relationship before talking politics
- Don't take comments personally
- Share your own relevant experiences
- Give a relatable hypothetical situation

2. Find common ground

- Bond over less polarized issues
- Be open to listening and understanding
- Ask questions to understand a different viewpoint
- Focus on shared beliefs

3. Stick to the facts and avoid confrontation

- Stick to information that can be verified
- Back up your opinions with evidence
- Limit emotion in discussion
- Avoid confrontational language

4. Be an advocate rather than an opponent

- Adapt conversational style to audience
- Avoid words that might upset people

5. Pick your battles

- Talk about local politics instead of national politics
- Focus on policy instead of party
- Avoid hot-button issues

Process for Ideas to Become A Law

- Idea
A legislator decides or legislators decide to sponsor a bill. Ideas come from many sources: constituents, interest groups, and government agencies.
- Bill Drafted
The legislator requests or legislators request the idea be drafted into a bill by the Legislative Services Agency, Legal Services Division
- Bill Filed
The bill draft is sent to the Senate or the House where it is assigned a number and is then sent to the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House.
- Committee Assignment
The President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House refers the bill to a standing committee. A subcommittee, assigned by the standing committee, then studies the bill and reports its conclusions to the full committee.
- Committee Action
The committee may pass the bill or pass an amended version of the bill. The committee may also send the bill to the floor without recommendation.
- Floor Debate
The bill is placed on the calendar, a listing of all bills officially eligible for debate. At this time legislators may file amendments to the bill.
- Amendment
The bill and any amendments filed are debated by the whole chamber. Amendments must be approved by a simple majority of those legislators voting.
- Vote
A constitutional majority, at least 26 senators or 51 representatives, must vote “yes” in order for the bill to proceed to the second chamber.
- Second Chamber
The bill goes through the same process in the second chamber. If the bill passes the second chamber without amendment, it is sent to the Governor. If the second chamber amends the bill it must be sent back to the chamber of origin for approval of those amendments. If the chambers cannot come to an agreement on the version of the bill, a conference committee is appointed.
- Governor
After the bill passes both chambers in identical form, it is sent to the Governor. The Governor may sign the bill, veto the bill, or take no action on the bill.
- Law
The bill becomes law upon the Governor’s signature or after three days during the session if the Governor takes no action. Bills received by the Governor during the last three days of the session have to be signed or vetoed within 30 days. If the Governor takes no action on the bill after the 30-day time period, the bill is considered vetoed.

Public Hearings

One way to participate in the legislative process is to attend or participate in a Public Hearing.

Iowa Library Association

The Iowa Library Association (ILA) supports advocacy for the mission of Iowa libraries.

They work with an organization in Des Moines to lobby on behalf of libraries in the state. A bill tracker can be found here: <https://www.ialobby.com/billtracker/ila>

Top Ten Quick Advocacy Tips

When library issues arise in public policy debates, library advocates should be ready to reach out to their public officials and persuade them to protect our libraries and rights!

1. Get to know your local elected officials. Do not wait until you need something to connect.
2. Do your homework. Reach out to the Cedar Rapids Public Library, the Iowa Library Association, or American Library Association for background on the specific issue and how best to frame the message.
3. Know your audience. Research positions of elected officials in advance. Understand what they care about and consider how your request aligns with these.
4. Contact elected officials personally if possible. A meeting is better than a phone call, a phone call is better than an e-mail, and an e-mail is better than no contact.
5. Always start with a thank you. Find something the elected official has recently supported which has a positive community impact and thank them for that.
6. Keep it brief. Share the most important facts and the few best arguments.
7. Make it personal. Explain how the issue impacts you and your family/friends...and their constituents!
8. Make a clear request. Ask them specifically to SUPPORT the legislation, or OPPOSE the legislation, or help to change the legislation.
9. Be polite, but direct, and try to get a commitment to support the library position.
10. Follow up. Once the issue is resolved, make sure to thank those that supported the library, and know that more work needs to be done with those that did not.

Guide the Conversation: Bridge, Hook, and Flag

These are three techniques to stay on track in a conversation or an interview to ensure the main point or points you want remembered get across to your elected official, legislator, or legislative staff member.

Bridge. This technique will allow you to move from an area in the conversation that you don't want to discuss or that has the potential to sidetrack the issue, and get the conversation back to your message. If the legislator says, for example, "Why shouldn't we be supporting policy that will help software companies? Isn't a good economy good for libraries?" Rather than getting into a discussion about the economy and whether or not new legislation will help the economy overall, you can use this as a platform for your point by saying: "I think the real question is . . ." and go back to your main point. For example, "I think the real question is "doesn't everyone benefit from good consumer laws?" Then, answer that question!

Hook. This is a technique that can lead your listener to follow-up on your first point, allowing you to get a second point in. For example, you can say, "There are two very important considerations that must be taken into account before you support this proposed policy. The first is . . ." then expand on that point. It is likely that the legislator or staff person will then ask you (or allow you) to follow up with the second point. This keeps the conversational ball in your court longer and gives you the opportunity to make both (or all points).

Flag. This technique is the easiest, and most people use it unconsciously all the time. Flagging alerts your listeners to what you consider most important. It's a good way to emphasize the key point or points you want the audience to remember. Flagging is simply giving your audience a verbal clue about what is important: "The most important thing to remember is . . ." or "If you remember nothing else, please remember these two points . . ."

Year-Round Advocacy Calendar

Use this as a general guide to engage with stakeholders throughout the calendar year.

January

Welcome new members of the state legislature. Mark important state legislative dates on your calendar. The first day of the session is January 8, 2024.

February

Participate in Lobby from Home Day through the Iowa Library Association (ILA). Explore ILA's Lobby from Home Guide for tips. February 16 marks the first funnel date for the 2024 Iowa Legislature. This is an important time to check in on bills that have made it out of committee.

March

Participate on ILA's Advocacy Day in Des Moines. Check the ILA website at the beginning of the year for specific dates and times. Check with the library for areas of advocacy around state legislation. Note the end of the second funnel week at the state legislature is March 15.

April

Celebrate National Library Week, April 7-13! Share our library story with your friends and family during this annual celebration week. Encourage others to do the same. Celebrate Take Action for Libraries Day on April 11. April 16 is the final day of the legislative session unless the calendar is adjusted during the session.

May

Thank your elected officials for their support during the legislative session. Encourage them to visit the library during the summer to see it in action. Register for the summer learning program and encourage your friends and family to do the same.

June

Summer is the busiest time of year the library! Be sure to encourage friends and family to participate in the summer learning program. Share library social media posts to help spread the word about events happening all summer long.

July

Connect with local elected officials on the start of a new fiscal year. Send a note to a city council member or county supervisor. Thank them for their continued support. Ask them to reach out if they'd like a tour or to speak in person about the library.

August

Celebrate back to school season by sharing information about Dolly Parton's Imagination Library! Encourage anyone you know with small children to enroll. Take enrollment cards to your local church or social group and encourage them to register for this amazing resource.

September

Celebrate National Library Card Sign Up Month with the library. Tag local and state elected officials in social media posts encouraging people to sign up for a library card. Share stories and information from the library in your own social media accounts.

October

Is this an election year? Keep an eye on local and state elections. Coordinate with your peers and the library to connect with candidates. Share the library's annual report and OPEN+ magazine. Encourage them to visit the library.

November

Veteran's Day is November 11. This is a great opportunity to highlight the resources the library offers to veterans.

December

The end of one calendar year means the next legislative session is coming soon. Be sure to reach out to elected officials and invite them to events, thank them for their support, and encourage them to connect with the library.
